PATRIOTIC THEME PROPOSED FOR 1951 OSD

Commission Accepts Firehouse Plans; Bids May Be Submitted To January 19

Campbell Fire Commissioners met Wednesday afternoon with architects for the new Central Avenue fire house and accepted the plans. E. C. Merrill, chairman of the board, announced Thursday that the commissioners are now ready to accept bids on the construction. Bids will be opened on January 19.

The 42x60 foot building will be largely of brick, with flat roof. Total floor area is to be approximately 2500 square feet. Provisions have been made in the plans for future expansion of the building, if necessary. The building would have an equipment room, 30 feet wide, with office, sleeping room, kitchen and other facilities running along the 12-foot side area. At the rear will be a tower to contain the siren and room for drying wet fire hose. Space will be provided for one extra piece of equipment.

In addition, the firehouse will be equipped with radio for communication with the Central Communications Department of the county. This provision was made at the latter department's request. In case of emergency, a full-time operator would be on duty. Merrill said commissioners hope that construction can be started by February 1. He added that construction time would cover an estimated 60 to 90 days.

Plans for the firehouse may be obtained at the offices of Kocher and Logue, architects, in San Jose. At least eight contractors have indicated intent to bid on the job. Campbell Fire Commission members are Merrill, Ethan E. Lanphear and Fred Jones.

Rooster Crowing Contest Judging For News Show

Preliminary judging in the Sam Hayes Rooster Crowing contest will be conducted this Saturday, from 8 a.m. until judging is completed, at Nelson Grain and Supply Company on Campbell Avenue, according to an announcement today by James W. Fisher, Larro field representative for General Mills.

Winner in this preliminary contest for entries of Santa Clara poultrymen will participate in the semi-final contest at KNBC studio in San Francisco on January 11, with other central California preliminary winners. Radio newscaster Sam Hayes will be present to witness the judging.

Immediately after the semi-finals, the local winner will compete with winners from eight other west coast districts NBC studios. Final winner will be selected on basis of radio audience vote.

Purpose of the contest is to select a new rooster to open the 7:45 a.m. Sperry breakfast broadcast of Hayes on NBC west coast networks. The contest is sponsored by General Mills, Inc., manufacturers of Larro Farm-Tested Feeds and Sperry Pancake and Waffle Mix.

Preliminary winners will receive a sack of Larro Feed and a case of Wheaties. Semi-finals winners will be awarded 500 pounds of any Larro feed, a table radio, toaster and Wheaties.

Awards for the grand prize winner will be an all-expense trip to Hollywood (if the winner is under 21, an additional all-expense trip will be provided for an adult chaperone); tour of the Disney studios conducted by Donald Duck, appearances on radio and television shows of NBC, a radio-TV-phonograph set, a ton of feed, bicycle, case of Swanson chicken fricassee, case of Swanson chicken a la king, and a one-year contract for his rooster to open the Sam Hayes news broadcast.

Judging in the preliminaries and semi-finals will be on standard bred and production characteristics of breeds. Judges here for the preliminary contest will be G. C. Sonnichsen of Los Gatos, Ralph Fitzsimmons, agriculture teacher at Morgan Hill High School, and O. F. Goettel of Los Gatos.

Planners Hear Zone Petitions; Deny Horse Permit

Second public hearings on three Campbell zoning requests were set for February 7 by the Santa Clara County Planning Commission following first hearings Wednesday afternoon.

These three are: petition of Tilson and Sanfilippo to reclassify property located between Saratoga Avenue and Quito road south of the intersection thereof and north of Paseo Cerro in El Quito Park subdivision. Zoning request is C-1 commercial.

Petition of Tilson and Sanfilippo to reclassify to C-1 commercial zone, property now zoned for residential use on the south side of Foxworthy Avenue between Ross Road and Jarvis Road.

Petition of Steve Dorcich and Dan Caputo to reclassify to R-2 duplex zone, property fronting on the north side of Stevens Creek Road between Tyler Avenue and Maplewood Avenue.

PERMIT DENIED

Denied by the commission was application of Charles A. Chubb for a use permit to maintain a horse on property located on the easterly side of Emory Avenue between Sunnyoaks Avenue and Waldo Road. Considerable protests to the application were received from residents of the area. The commission found that issuance of such a permit would have a detrimental effect on surrounding residential property.

MORTON ASKS FOR VOLUNTEERS TO REGISTER FOR DUTIES UNDER CIVILIAN DEFENSE PROGRAM

NEW RESTAURANT, MARTIN'S OPEN FOR BUSINESS

An attractive new restaurant and fountain, Martin's, on San Jose-Los Gatos Road at Campbell Avenue, opened for business yesterday evening under management of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Martin, of 315 N. Winchester Rd., Campbell, and Mr. and Mrs. John Huber.

The trim single story redwood rustic edifice promises to be a welcome addition to this community and its expanding business area. The interior color scheme of the 44x58 foot building features a rose and tan motif in the leatherette upholstery on the booth seats and counter chairs and the table tops and counter. Green, rose, and grey predominate in the asphalt tile floor. The contractor was Pete Schlegel.

The dining area is divided into two sections, one having the 10-seat counter and the seven big comfortable booths while the second section provides table seating area for 48 and can be used as a separate banquet room.

Off-street parking for an estimated 35 cars is provided in the gravelled area completely surrounding the building which is set back from the highway.

The restaurant and fountain hours will be from 11:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Lunch, dinner and fountain service are offered.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin have been in the restaurant business for over 25 years in Portland and Seaside, Oregon and Vancouver, Washington. They came to Campbell nine months ago. Mr. and Mrs. Huber have been in the catering business for about 10 years.

EDITORIAL

Governor Earl Warren's charge that the public is apathetic about volunteering for civilian defense may have come as a surprise to residents here and in other parts of the state who have been waiting and wondering how to help. Although reaction of many citizens was that the charge was unjust in view of lack of organization at higher levels, Campbell residents are no longer remaining in the dark about where to volunteer and what is needed, and who.

Who is asked to volunteer? Everyone who is willing to do his duty to help prevent complete disaster during a possible attack by a foreign power. Everyone who has particular abilities or training in first aid, fire fighting, police work, plane spotting, demolition, cooking for large numbers, ambulance operation and crew work. Everyone who could assume some duties in establishment of a relief center for bombed out local families. Everyone who could help clear thoroughfares of rubble from destroyed buildings. Everyone who could sew, roll bandages, clean and scrub, and dozens of other tasks.

Where do we volunteer? Phone immediately to Attorney Richard W. Morton, Campbell 2236 or CY 5-5688, or write him at 273 E. Campbell Avenue; phone Robert Hicks, assistant zone commander, Campbell 3446, or write to him care of the Ainsley Corporation, Harrison Avenue, Campbell, giving your name, address, phone number and particular abilities. Leave the information with either Morton's or Hicks's secretary, but do register, no matter how insignificant you feel your abilities to be.

Governor Warren has called for millions of volunteers. Campbell, itself, will need hundreds of volunteers, including a person trained in first aid in each home. Each of us has a share in the future of the community, the state and the nation. Each of us has a job to do to protect that future. Part of that job is to volunteer now and be on call when the time comes.

Selection of Campbell residents to head up medical, fire and police auxiliaries and warden operations under the Campbell civilian defense zone organization, has been made by Zone Commander Richard W. Morton, and Assistant Commander Robert Hicks, Morton said their list of selections for the various posts must be cleared through the county coordinator's office before it can be released.

Also selected and awaiting approval is location of the command post for Campbell zone.

APPEAL FOR VOLUNTEERS

A direct appeal to all residents of the community has been issued by Morton, who asks that every citizen, particularly those with experience in Red Cross work and first aid, volunteer for civilian defense work. He added that while this registration of volunteers will not mean that all will be assigned immediate duties, it will enable him and his assistants to lay out regular block and zone plans which can be put into immediate operation in event of attack.

"Please write or phone either me or Mr. Hicks, and list name, address, phone number and particular abilities," he urged. "I have already received phone calls from residents who are willing to volunteer for anything. The greater our list of volunteers, and the more complete our information, the better will be our zone organization, and the speed with which we act in time of disaster."

"Information supplied by all volunteers will be kept on file and, when the county blueprint for civil defense is completed, our job will be half done if the people of Campbell have answered our appeal for volunteer." He emphasized that any lack of planning at the top, at county, state or national level, should not be permitted to hinder full planning at this local level.

Volunteers may phone Morton at Campbell 2236 or CY-5688. Information may be left with his secretary. The same arrangement has been made at the Ainsley Corporation office of Hicks, phone Campbell 3446. Elsewhere on the local civilian defense scene, Joaquin J. Payne, chairman of the Campbell branch of the American Red Cross, indicated the local group will work in conjunction with Morton's organization. Payne said he will confer this Saturday with a first aid instructor on arrangements for a first aid class to be offered in this area.

Nurse Registration Mrs. Gwendolyn Steindorf, Campbell area chairman for recruitment of persons trained in nursing or first aid, said she already has received four volunteer registrations, all from persons who have been registered nurses. Still more are needed.

So far, there have been no registrations for the allied fields, persons having training in practical nursing, first aid, home nursing and nurses' aides. All persons with any such training are urged to register with her, phone Campbell 3437.

Sojourners' Assn. Plans Breakfast

Association of Sojourners of Charity Lodge, F&AM, will have a breakfast meeting Sunday at Williams Family Lockers on Quito Road. G. E. Thompson will be the chairman of the day and has arranged for an interesting speaker.

The annual banquet will be held January 23 at Cambrian school. Breakfast reservations should be phoned to either C. E. Barham, Campbell 3220, or Tom Daugherty, 3444, before this Saturday noon.

CHAMBER BOARD TO HEAR REPORTS MONDAY NIGHT

Board members of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce will meet next Monday, January 8, at 8 p.m. in the Campbell Press office. Highlighting the agenda will be a progress report on the 1951 Old Settlers' Day program to be given by General Chairman John Duncan.

Also slated for hearing will be reports on the proposed Campbell Avenue-Winchester Road whiteway by Vice-president L. E. "Bill" Means; a report on plans for Campbell Dollar day by Clarence Nelson and progress to date on obtaining street sweeper service for the business district. All directors are urged to attend. President E. W. Barnes will preside.

Legion 'Ham' Radio Aids Family In Emergency

John F. Meikle, amateur radio station operator in Campbell, and member of Campbell American Legion Post 596, came to the rescue recently when friends of a seriously ill young Navy wife sought to contact her husband at sea.

Meikle, member of the American Legion Amateur Radio Emergency Net, was contacted by the friends via telephone at 10:19 p.m., and given a message which required immediate transmittal to its destination. In five minutes his station, W6WOZ at 1008 Stevens Court, contacted W6HQX, Camp Pendleton, another member of the emergency net, which transmitted the message to the Navy. Within a few seconds Meikle was advised that the message had been delivered to the addressee.

Nine minutes after Meikle had sent the message, the Navy man, Earl G. Stewart, chief pay clerk aboard the USS Jupiter, had replied. He had been notified his wife was seriously ill at Oak Knoll Naval Hospital, and Stewart replied he would be unable to fly out from his ship at sea that same night due to weather difficulties. He did come in the following morning.

Mrs. Stewart is making a rapid recovery and hopes, before very long, to be back at home with her three children.

In the above case, the friend who sent the message, first called the post adjutant, who in turn referred her to Meikle. The operator may be called directly without going through post channels.

Both Meikle and the post have issued a statement that the services of the local station are available to anyone in time of emergency. Best time to reach Meikle, phone Campbell 2679, is in the evenings.

Meikle, whose code name is Jack, and his station have become a part of the valuable American Legion Emergency net which serves this entire state and provides direct contact with Nevada in the event of atomic bombing.

CHILD DROWNED

A two-year-old child, Vickie Lynn Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy R. Smith of 715 Salerno Drive, was reported drowned in the bathtub of her home in a Thursday morning accident.

Santa Clara County Hospital spokesmen reported the child was pronounced dead on arrival at the emergency receiving room at 11:05 a.m. The mother's name was listed on the report as Helen Smith.

The family could not be reached by press time for further details.

Proposals for revival of the original idea of Campbell's Old Settlers' Day observance as a patriotic observance were outlined at the 1951 OSD committee's first meeting in the school district administration offices on Third Street.

Although the idea is extremely tentative at this point, Chairman

John P. Duncan expressed hope that exemplification of purposes of the early American colonists will be the underlying theme of the February 22 celebration. He pointed out that although the annual celebration is traditionally held on George Washington's birthday anniversary, this fact plays no part in the observance.

"In view of present world conditions," commented Dave Ribble, publicity chairman, "this would appear to be the opportune time to revive the patriotic theme of the earlier Old Settlers' Day programs through our rededication to the basic ideals of the founders of our country."

In line with this proposed revision of the recent practice, would be either a change in method of selecting the OSD queen, or elimination of the queen's office entirely.

QUEEN SELECTION Emphasizing that all this is merely in the proposal stage, Duncan said the queen would not be selected on the basis of the numbers of tickets the candidates sell for the celebration dance. Ribble added that the "cheesecake" and publicity angle would be out. The queen and her escort, if there are to be such, would be dressed in colonial costumes, representative of George and Martha Washington. The field would be open to all comers, and selection would be on a merit basis, such as preparation of the costume, civic activity or some other related qualification.

Both pointed out that the role of the queen in the celebration hinges on decision of the Campbell Business and Professional Women's Club which is serving as the queen contest committee, with Mrs. I. O. McConnell as chairman. BPW members will discuss the matter at their January 10 meeting. Meanwhile, Duncan has called another meeting for next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the school administration office. All committee chairmen or their representatives must be present, for each is to present budget requests for his group. On the basis of these estimates the annual budget will be prepared. In addition, program arrangements will be completed.

PARADE GROUP MEETING Forrest A. Reese, Old Settlers' Day parade chairman, announced today his committee will meet on Tuesday evening, one hour before the general session. His group is to gather at 7 p.m. in the Ainsley Corporation offices, and all members are urged to attend. Reese, and Co-chairman Robert Hicks, have divided the parade committee into four sub-committees: awards, mounted, reviewing stand and judges. Members of these sub-committees are: awards—Homer Hyde, chairman; William Maderis and Dorothy Royce; mounted—Ira Grim, chairman; J. F. Levenberg and Ollie Jensen; reviewing stand—Kenneth Strong, chairman; Tony Bakich, James Brand and Leo Park; judges—Jack Payne, chairman; Arthur Mayo and Marty Fish.

Reese and Hicks urged full attendance at the meeting Tuesday night. "The time is short," said the chairman, "and, as the parade is one of the highlights of the celebration it is necessary that all members perform the duties assigned by General Chairman John Duncan."

Committee members agreed that the annual Whiskerino contest is out this year. In view of the more serious theme for the observance, it was felt that the whiskerinos would have to be shelved.

Greatest emphasis will be placed on the parade. All organizations and business houses are urged to plan their float entries now. Individuals are requested to begin planning their costumes. Next

DON'T SHUT OFF UTILITY CONNECTIONS IN EVENT OF AIR RAID, DIRECTOR WARNS

Four emphatic Don'ts for householders concerning utilities in the event of an air raid have been determined by Maj. Gen. Walter M. Robertson, State Director of Civil Defense.

"In view of numerous conflicting instructions from sources other than the Office of Civil Defense which have been publicized on the subject of action to be taken with relation to utilities in the event of a major attack," Gen. Robertson said, "the California Office of Civil Defense is issuing the following directives:

DON'T

"DON'T shut off your gas service! You may need the heat during the emergency alert and dangerous accumulations of gas may be released into homes or buildings if service is restored by untrained people.

"DON'T shut off your electricity! You may want your radio which may be your only means of receiving official instructions, or your clock, or a hot plate, or even a light in your shelter.

"DON'T shut off your water service! You may need your sanitary facilities or water may be needed quickly to put out small fires.

"DON'T draw quantities of water into bathtubs or other containers! This will only reduce pressure in the mains and also result in an unnecessary waste of water which may be badly needed. Storage water heaters have sufficient supplies for emergency drinking and cooking needs."

Gen. Robertson explained that the "Don'ts" are the result of conferences with utility engineers and members of the Office of Civil Defense staff assigned to the subject.

"Your gas, electricity, or water utility has emergency operating procedures which are designed to best safeguard the community," Gen. Robertson said. "When safety measures are necessary, utility supplies can be cut off in the danger areas most effectively by utility service crews. Following the advice of your local utility manager."

PARENTS' COMPENSATION

Subject to income limitations and other requirements, dependent parents of a deceased veteran or serviceman whose death was due to military service in either World War I or II or in Korea may be eligible for monthly compensation payments, according to John W. Davis, Veterans Service Officer. A single surviving parent, if eligible may receive $60 a month. If both parents are alive, the Veterans Administration pays each of them $35 a month, John W. Davis said.

Both dependency and relationship to the deceased veteran must be proved by copies of official records and by affidavits, however, and the use of official forms for the various documents involved will expedite the payment, he pointed out. In addition, there are many technical points to be understood, such as what kinds of income are or are not counted for the purpose of determining dependency. Parents of deceased veterans or servicemen may obtain

The Korean crisis has created urgent demands for new workers in eight occupational fields, Veterans Administration announced in a report to its field offices recently.

The eight fields were selected, the report said, to illustrate the general tightening up of the labor market that has resulted from America's mobilization program.

The fields include health professions, grade school teachers, ship radio operators, electronic engineers, scientific and technical professions.

Prepared for the VA by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, the report will be used in furnishing vocational counseling to veterans.

Following are highlights of the report:

HEALTH PROFESSIONS: Shortages of qualified personnel, which existed even before the outbreak of hostilities in Korea, have been intensified by mobilization. Greatest needs are in medicine, dentistry and nursing, but the demand for specialists in other health service occupations also has grown.

School teaching: Another profession in which a previous personnel shortage will be intensified. The shortage will be much worse than during World War II, for the country is now faced with the need for an increasing force of new teachers to care for great numbers of 'war babies' starting school.

High school teaching on the other hand, was a profession with an oversupply in most fields during the last year or two. The surplus probably will shrink in the next year or two.

Ship radio operators: In early 1950, long lists of operators were waiting for assignments to ships. With the Korean war a startling change occurred; waiting lists were wiped out and the unions found themselves looking for operators.

Electronic technicians: Because of early defense needs, electronic technicians were in demand even before Korea. The demand became keener after hostilities, and further was intensified as the television industry required more and more skilled workers. Despite growing demands, not all persons with some knowledge of electronics will be able to find jobs; to qualify as a top notch technician, a person must have an aptitude for this type of work.

Scientific and Technical Professions: Demands have been great in the past few months, particularly in engineering, chemistry and other specialties directly related to defense. However, it is likely that the recent spurt in hiring was partly in advance of actual requirements. The need will continue to grow but at a slower rate. Greatest shortages are in positions requiring graduate training, thus reducing job competition among less highly trained men.

Skilled metal workers: Tool and die makers, machinists, molders and others will be in demand during the next few years. However, employers are being cautious about taking on new apprentices, in the belief that needs are for immediate production rather than long range training. Best chances for apprenticeships will be for young men exempt from military service.

Railroad employment will be favorably affected by expansion in defense production and in the armed forces. The expansion probably will not be uniform; the number of boilermakers employed for example may continue to decline as the railroads replace more and more steam locomotives with diesel electric.

Clerical jobs should be relatively easy to get in the near future since employers are again faced with problems of high turnover rates, as relatively low paid office workers move into better paying war production and government jobs. Further increase in the number of withdrawals from clerical positions and in the demand for replacements are to be expected.

According to the report, large numbers of non-defense jobs also will be providing many openings during the next several years, even though total employment stays near present levels. The reason is a higher rate of turnover caused by many workers leaving such occupations to take better salaried defense jobs.

Maderis, Campbell Hardware Unbeaten In 'B' Competition

Campbell Hardware and Maderis Foods continued on their respective unbeaten paths Tuesday night in the "B" division of the Senior Basketball league as they turned in potent wins in the local high school gym.

The hardware crew copped its third win by trimming Santa Clara Lumber, 42 to 26. The lineup had definite local color, as many erstwhile Buc cage stars are now cavorting for the Campbell five.

Hal Layman paced the winners with 16 points. He was abetted by the 10 points netted by John Oldham.

The undefeated five held only a five point lead at halftime, but turned on the heat after recess to win going away. They hit for 11 field goals in the last half while holding the lumbermen to only four.

Maderis went on a scoring spree as they trounced California Supply, 60 to 41, to win its second straight.

The foodsmen put on the iron man act with all starters playing the entire game.

Scoring honors were shared by three players, all from Maderis. Glenn Wallin potted 24 points through on 10 baskets and four charity tosses. On his heels was Joe Novallavich with 18 points. Nick Mariani was two points back

MORE 100 Hopefuls

Jack Bray, who tied for first place in the high jump, will be doing double duty, according to Morgan. The amiable mentor hopes to have the springy Bray running the dashes, particularly the century.

John Hoover is counted upon to lead the 440 men once again. Additional help is forthcoming from the B's. Morgan said. In Dan Livesay, Morgan believes he has a great prospect for the quarter-mile; Ray Williams figures to be one of the more potent 880 men, judging from his work last season.

with his 16 points. Both Novallavich and Mariani netted seven field goals each, but the former bagged two extra free throws.

Halftime score read Maderis 27, and Calif. Supply, 14.

POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER, JR.

Mix one New Year's hangover with a dash of conscience, add a drop of the milk of human kindness and bingo—you have a resolution, hard to preserve, but heady while it lasts.

In keeping with the season, with malice toward only a few, regrets to some and a better New Year for all, here are a few resolutions that the individuals concerned probably won't make for themselves, but for which the world probably would be better off if they did.

Premier Joseph Stalin. Resolved: To strive sincerely for the Nobel Peace Award for 1951.

Joe Louis. Resolved: To stop boxing no matter how great the temptation may be to continue.

Mickey Cohen. Resolved: To go to some nice uninhabited island—and stay.

Mayor Fletcher Bowron of Los Angeles. Resolved: To get through this year without a recall campaign.

James Roosevelt. Resolved: To stay out of politics—no ifs, ands, buts, ors, or maybes.

President Harry Truman. Resolved: Never to forget to use invisible ink when hot under the collar.

Mayor Elmer E. Robinson of San Francisco. Resolved: To keep after the Federal Government until civilian defense for metropolitan areas is a fact and not all talk.

Governor Earl Warren. Resolved: To Form a Non-Partisan Party for non-partisan politicians so that Democrats and Republicans can vote for Republicans and Democrats.

Drew Pearson. Resolved: To stay out of cloak room fist fights.

Senator Joseph McCarthy. Resolved: To stop picking on poor news commentators.

Dean Acheson. Resolved: To develop an American foreign policy behind which the Nation can unite or find a new job.

CALIFORNIA CIVIL DEFENSE GOES INTO HIGH GEAR, STATES GEN. ROBERTSON

California's civil defense program went into high gear this week. Maj. Gen. Walter M. Robertson, Governor Warren's appointee as director of civil defense, set the pace when he announced, "We're going ahead pending action by the federal government."

General Robertson set in motion two programs—one for mobilization of 350,000 volunteers to serve as wardens in the event of atomic attack or other disaster and the other to train 3,500,000 Californians in first aid.

Instructions were sent to the mayors and other administrative heads in 304 cities and towns and to chairmen of boards of supervisors in the state's 58 counties.

General Robertson acted immediately after his return from Washington and Chicago, where he conferred with top government authorities preparing for protection of the civilian population if war comes to the nation.

Back in Sacramento, General Robertson called a conference of key members of his staff in the Office of Civil Defense and told them to begin organizing citizens without waiting for instructions from Washington. The plan is to have the manpower ready when the training pattern is set by the Federal Civil Defense Administration.

"It is desired," General Robertson said in a bulletin to the mayors and supervisors, "that the warden service be initiated at once and that the organization be completed within three to four months, by which time the Federal Civil Defense administration had indicated that a warden service manual, a warden's handbook and a warden's training guide will be distributed."

General Robertson advised caution in selection of the wardens. They should be chosen, he said, "with regard to leadership, natural ability, presence of mind and physical stamina."

All personnel will be screened by the local enforcement agency and registered as disaster service workers with a disaster council accredited by the state so as to qualify for workmen's compensation in case of injury. They also will be required to take a loyalty oath.

Block wardens, those who will direct householders and business groups in an emergency, will be trained in first aid, elementary fire fighting, decontamination measures, rescue work, assistance of persons to shelters, casualty reporting, and assistance of local law enforcement. For the next few weeks, however, the operation will be largely organizational.

The wardens will function under a chief warden, who will be named in each community by the mayor or board of supervisors. Depending upon the size of the area, zone and district wardens also may be appointed.

The number of wardens to be recruited will be left to the judgment of the community heads of government—but the Office of Civil Defense estimated that 350,000 will be required throughout the state.

"In the more populous subdivisions, particularly those in the critical target areas," General Robertson wrote, "it is believed that the warden service will be sufficiently large so that it might be organized as a separate service within the local defense organization."

The wardens' duties, which will be specified in the federal instructions now being drafted, are expected to be similar to those performed in World War II. The same insignia of identification probably will be used.

In calling for 3,500,000 Californians to enlist for first-aid training, General Robertson set a goal of one person in each household competent to carry out standard Red Cross procedure during an emergency.

"In a recent conference with Raymond H. Barrows, Manager of Pacific Area of the Red Cross, General Robertson said, 'He assured me that he had already directed the 127 Red Cross Chapters in California to accelerate their efforts to provide this training. However, in a few communities where there has been very little activity in the past, the time required for training instructors will be a limiting factor in working out the program.'

"It is important that Civil Defense authorities assume responsibility for interest in this vital program." If municipal and county officials will also cooperate in stressing the importance of first aid training, I am satisfied we will reach our objective without unnecessary delay."

Since he took over the civil defense directorship last October, General Robertson has organized a staff of more than 100 engaged in planning an executing a disaster program.

Operational plans are under way to provide emergency law enforcement, fire fighting, medical assistance, radiological safety, utilities protection and repair, communications and public information.

Salt Water Pollutes Coastal And Bay Fresh Water Stores

Salt water from the ocean has polluted approximately 90,000 acres of fresh water-bearing deposits in thirteen major and minor ground water basins of the California coast and inland bay areas, and threatens seven other ground-water basins.

These facts were highpoints of a report made recently in San Francisco by the State Division of Water Resources at the monthly meeting of the State Water Pollution Control Board. Title of the comprehensive report is: "Sea-water Intrusion Into Ground-Water Basins Bordered the California Coast and Inland Bays."

Report was requested by the State Water Pollution Control Board as it seeks to determine what agencies are responsible to curb the continuing encroachment of salt water into fresh water supply.

The report said on this subject: "Under present law no administrative agency of the state is empowered to take all necessary steps to correct or prevent sea-water intrusion."

POLLUTED BASINS

The thirteen ground-water basins already invaded by salt water are: (a) the coastal segments of the shallow, alluvium-filled San Diego, San Luis Rey and Santa Margarita river valleys in San Diego County; (b) the seaward margins of Central Coastal Basin and West Basin, in the coastal plain of Los Angeles and Orange counties; (c) the coastal segments of Malibu and Trancas Creeks in Los Angeles County; (d) a small portion of the seaward margin of Oxnard Plain in Ventura County; (e) the seaward margins of Salinas and Pajaro valleys and the coastal segment between these valleys in Monterey and Santa Cruz counties; (f) the bayward margins of Santa Clara Valley from Oakland to San Mateo; and (g) the Sacramento-San Joaquin River Delta from Antioch to Pittsburg.

Continued pumping of fresh ground-water in these areas at present rates will allow further encroachment of salt water, resulting in widespread deterioration of fresh ground-water supplies.

Most serious invasion to date is occurring in the overdrawn West Basin of Los Angeles County, and the Central Coastal Basin in Orange County.

Other actions of the State Board at the San Francisco meeting included:

Approval of a $43,194 loan to the San Andreas Sanitary District in Calaveras County for construction of lateral sewers, treatment plant, and disposal facilities. Final approval will come from the State Department of Finance. This is the first loan to be approved under provisions of 1949 legislation which set up aid funds for communities with problems of pollution abatement too large to be handled by local financing.

Warren T. Hannum, state director of Natural Resources, was re-elected chairman of the State board for the 1951 term.

F. Veitenheimer Succumbs At 57

Frank Veitenheimer, 57, native of Russia and brother of Steve Veitenheimer and Mathilda Chadwick of Campbell, died in Santa Clara on December 31, at his home, 1970 Main Street. He had been ill for a short time.

In addition to his brother and sister, he leaves his widow, Freda Veitenheimer; son, Patrick Veitenheimer, both of Santa Clara; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Veitenheimer of Oklahoma; sisters, Mrs. Rose Steinburger of San Jose, Pauline Sasser and Ann Rhoad of Stockton, Cecelia Sucky and Betty Veitenheimer, both of Oklahoma, and brothers, Joe and Pete Veitenheimer, both of Oklahoma.

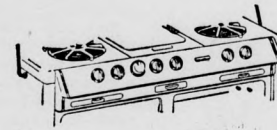

Veitenheimer was a World War I veteran and a member of Cannery Workers Union of Santa Clara, Local 679.

Services were held Wednesday morning in Santa Clara, with requiem mass at St. Clare's Church. Interment was at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

El Paradiso Council Meets January 12

El Paradiso Council of Parents and Teachers will meet Friday, January 12, at Los Gatos high school. The meeting will run from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. Mrs. R. L. Allinger, president, will conduct the session.

BIRTHS—CAMPBELL POSTER—To Mr. and Mrs. George Lee Foster, 644 S. San Tomas Road, Campbell, a son, Steven George, December 5 at O'Connor Hospital.

HOW SOUND IS OUR BOOM? Completing statistics on last year's farm income in California, the State Department of Agriculture recently reported that for the fourth consecutive year the total for all farmers exceeded two billion dollars. That is a lot of money — even though today's dollar does not represent much more than a 50-cent piece of ten years ago in buying power.

But is that "boom" income cause for unmitigated rejoicing on the California farm? Some farmers have their doubts. One of them, Kermit Wilson, citrus grower who farms 40 acres of oranges, lemons, and avocados, even thinks a touch of depression would have its values!

SOCIAL SECURITY AND FREEDOM On the factor of price supports in farm prosperity, Mr. Wilson, writing in the Citigraph, has this to say, in part:

"Do you remember how Frank 'Bring 'em Back Alive' Buck used to catch monkeys? He used a hollowed-out coconut with a small hole cut in the top, just the size of the monkey's hand. A stake, with a string on the end, was driven into the ground. This was attached to the coconut. The nut was partly filled with rice. Soon the monkey reached in and grabbed a handful. His fist was then too large to pull out and he wouldn't let go of the rice. Final result: monk transferred to a nice, cozy zoo, well fed. He had gained social security—but he had lost his freedom.

ADVERSITY & COOPERATION "Now I don't want seriously to compare a farmer to a monkey, because I am a farmer, but this support idea reminds me of that situation. I would like to have guaranteed economic security and a permanently good bank account. However, all of the sound progress in citrus, and other specialty industries, individually and collectively, has been made under more or less adverse circumstances.

"The whole cooperative idea came about because growers were about to go broke individually. With many individuals working as teams, strong marketing cooperatives have been developed that have drawn the attention of farmers all over the world. From this, voluntary teamwork born of adversity, came the solution of many problems.

LOSS OF SELF-RELIANCE "We would all like to have constant support price 'good times' with no worry—but facing us is the fact that even the U. S. Treasury is not inexhaustible. When Uncle Sam's pockets are empty, won't we be helpless, like a zoo monkey sent back to the jungle to compete with those which have never had a planned economy?

"Perhaps a little depression now and then is good for us. We don't like it, but it makes us constantly review our farm practices and cut out wasteful methods before they reach bankrupting proportions. Give me a free, competitive economy. It is much safer than the 'zoo.' Watch out for disguised coconuts filled with money! There may be a string on the other end."

Well, there we have presented one California farmer's viewpoint — an interesting viewpoint it is. Not everyone will agree with him in all he says; but it is likely that most farmers, like Mr. Wilson, would feel more confident of continuance of present farm prosperity if our entire U. S. economy—agriculture, industry, and all business — were solidly based on the law of supply and demand.

YOU CAN ESCAPE ATOM BOMB

PUBLICATION OF CIVIL DEFENSE BOOK 'SURVIVAL UNDER ATOMIC ATTACK' BEGINS IN THIS ISSUE OF PAPER

With this issue, this newspaper begins publication of material contained in the booklet, "Survival Under Atomic Attack," as distributed by the Office of Civil Defense, State of California. Copies of the booklet, now in its second million, are being distributed throughout the state. This is an official publication of the Federal Civil Defense Administration, explaining, in simple language, what to do in the event of an atomic attack and how to do it.

Everyone is urged to give the information careful study, in order that he may be prepared in the event of an attack.

YOU CAN SURVIVE
YOU CAN LIVE THROUGH AN ATOM BOMB RAID AND YOU WON'T HAVE TO HAVE A GEIGER COUNTER, PROTECTIVE CLOTHING, OR SPECIAL TRAINING IN ORDER TO DO IT.

THE SECRETS OF SURVIVAL ARE: KNOW THE BOMB'S TRUE DANGERS. KNOW THE STEPS YOU CAN TAKE TO ESCAPE THEM.

Atom-splitting is just another way of causing an explosion. To begin with, you must realize that atom-splitting is just another way of causing an explosion. While an atom holds more death and destruction than man has ever before wrapped in a single package, its total power is definitely limited. Not even hydrogen bombs could blow the earth apart or kill us all by mysterious radiation.

Your chances of surviving an atomic attack are better than you may have thought.

Because the power of all bombs is limited, your chances of living through an atomic attack are much better than you may have thought. In the city of Hiroshima, slightly over half the people who were a mile from the atomic explosion are still alive. At Nagasaki, almost 70 per cent of the people a mile from the bomb lived to tell their experiences. Today thousands of survivors of these two atomic attacks live in new houses built right where their old ones once stood. The war may have changed their way of life, but they are not riddled with cancer. Their children are normal. Those who were temporarily unable to have children because of the radiation now are having children again.

WHAT ARE YOUR CHANCES?
Close to the explosion, your chances are only one out of ten.

If a modern A-bomb exploded without warning in the air over your home town tonight, your calculated chances of living through the raid would run something like this:

Should you happen to be one of the unlucky people right under the bomb, there is practically no hope of living through it. In fact, anywhere within one-half mile of the center of explosion, your chances of escaping are about 1 out of 10.

On the other hand, and this is the important point, from one-half to 1 mile away, you have a 50-50 chance.

Beyond a half mile, your chances of surviving increase rapidly.

From 1 to 1½ miles out, the odds that you will be killed are only 15 in 100.

And at points from 1½ to 2 miles away, deaths drop all the way down to only 2 or 3 out of each 100.

Beyond 2 miles, the explosion will cause practically no deaths at all.

does not necessarily mean you are doomed to die or be crippled.

Naturally, your chances of being injured are far greater than your chances of being killed. But even injury by radioactivity does not mean that you will be left a cripple, or doomed to die an early death. Your chances of making a complete recovery are much the same as for everyday accidents. These estimates hold good for modern atomic bombs exploded without warning.

WHAT ABOUT SUPER BOMBS?
Don't be misled by wild talk of "super-super bombs."

Do not be misled by loose talk of imaginary weapons a hundred or a thousand times as powerful. All cause destruction by exactly the same means, yet one 20,000-ton bomb would not create nearly as much damage as 10,000 two-ton bombs dropped a little distance apart. This is because the larger bombs "waste" too much power near the center of the explosion. From the practical point of view, it doesn't matter whether a building near the center of the explosion is completely vaporized or whether it is simply knocked into a pile of rubble.

Doubling a bomb's power doesn't mean doubling the damage it will do.

To be more specific, a modern atomic bomb can do heavy damage to houses and buildings roughly 2 miles away. But doubling its power will extend the range of damage to only about 2½ miles. In the same way, if there were a bomb 100 times as powerful, it would reach out only a little more than 4½, not 100 times as far.

And remember: All these calculations of your chances of survival assume that you have absolutely no advance warning of the attack.

Blast and Heat are the biggest dangers.

Just like fire bombs and ordinary high explosives, atomic weapons blast and heat. So first let's look at a few things you can do to escape these two dangers.

WHAT ABOUT BLAST?
To protect yourself from blast, lie down in a shielded spot.

Even if you have only a second's warning, there is one important thing you can do to lessen your chances of injury by blast: Fall flat on your face.

More than half of all wounds are the result of being tossed about or being struck by falling and flying objects. If you lie down flat, you are least likely to be thrown about. If you have time to pick a good spot, there is less chance of your being struck by flying glass and other things.

In your house: Lie down against a wall.

If you are inside a building, the best place to flatten out is close against the cellar wall. If you haven't time to get down there, lie down along an inside wall, or duck under a bed or table. But don't pick a spot right opposite the windows or you are almost and

Do you suffer from hot flushes, nervous tension, upset emotions due to functional 'change of life' (38-52 years)—that period when fertility ebbs away, when embarrassing symptoms of this nature may betray your age?

Then start taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. No other medicine of this type for women has such a long record of success. Taken regularly, Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against this annoying middle-age distress. Truly the woman's friend!

Community Service Project Studied By Campbell VFW Post And Auxiliary

At the coming meeting of Lt. Byron C. Lanphear Post 6305, Veterans of Foreign Wars of Campbell on Friday night January 5, in the hall of the library building, action will be taken on the program of community service to which the post members and the women's auxiliary have dedicated themselves for the coming year, in accordance with the national community service program.

The Campbell area has been surveyed by members of the post and auxiliary to determine what community services are needed to benefit the greatest number of citizens.

Commander Alfred L. Lord of the local post declared today that members have been studying the district's education, recreation, health, safety, and other needs as the first step toward applying in Campbell the V.F.W. national service campaign.

In the national campaign Veterans of Foreign Wars Posts and Auxiliaries are competing for $35,000 cash and other awards for sponsorship of outstanding community service programs before May 31, 1951.

"The Veterans of Foreign Wars believes that serving the welfare of communities is the best way to strengthen democracy at home—the best way to really apply the American way of life," Commander Lord declared. "Our organization of more than one million overseas war veterans believes that community service is the positive way to fight Communism, Fascism, and all other un-Americanisms where those subversive influences take root. Community service work is not new to our organization. The majority of our more than ten thousand V.F.W. posts and six thousand six hundred auxiliaries in all states are doing a great deal for their cities, towns and neighborhoods. Those programs have proved so beneficial to millions of youth, adults, and to the Veterans of sure to be pelted with shattered glass.

Outdoors: Get next to a solid building.

If caught out-of-doors, either drop down alongside the base of a good substantial building—avoid flimsy, wooden ones likely to be blown over on top of you—or else jump in any handy ditch or gutter.

To escape temporary blindness, bury your face in your arms.

When you fall flat to protect yourself from a bombing, don't look up to see what is coming. Even during the daylight hours, the flash from a bursting A-bomb can cause several moments of blindness, if you're facing that way. To prevent it, bury your face in your arms and hold it there for 10 or 12 seconds after the explosion. That will also help to keep flying glass and other things out of your eyes.

Blood Appeal For Local Resident

A Campbell family seriously needs donations of blood for one of its members, and all local residents who can give are urged to make it a point to phone the Blood Bank in San Jose, CY2-6242 and make an appointment immediately. The Blood Bank is located at 440 N. First Street, San Jose.

The appeal has been issued by friends of the James Gleed family. Any type of blood will be acceptable, since it will be credited to the Gleed family, and the right type of blood will be issued by the bank to the patient's doctor.

All Campbell residents who give are reminded to give in the name of Mrs. James Gleed. It is essential that this statement accompany each donation if it is to be credited to Mrs. Gleed.
